CyberCorps®
Defending America's Cyberspace

For the opportunity to participate in the CyberCorps scholarship program, graduates are required to serve at a US government organization in a full-time information assurance position for a period equivalent to the length of the scholarship or one year, whichever is longer.

Program Benefits for Master's Students

- $25,000/year stipend for Master's students
- Full tuition and education-related fees
- Health insurance reimbursement
- Professional development and book allowance
- Government summer internship program

The University of Pittsburgh is ranked 5th nationally in federally-funded research and is one of approximately a dozen Centers in the US with five Committee on National Security Systems (CNSS) certifications. These CNSS certifications set the standard for professionals in the telecommunications and information systems security industries.
